Welcome to the 7th Cambridge Buskers & Street Performers Festival

Cambridge Buskers & Street Performers Festival is now in its 7th year (we took a year off in 2012 for the Olympics) and is the 2nd festival that Cambuskers Community Group has organised.

The Festival's popularity has grown immensely and is a highlight of the Cambridge calendar. We have more applicants from overseas than ever before, who will perform alongside artists from the local area.

Cambuskers bring a diverse range of music, dance and street theatre to the streets of Cambridge. We also have music at d'Arry's in King Street, The Earl of Beaconsfield in Mill Road and The Six Bells in Covent Garden (off Mill Road). New for this year is a Cambridge Buskers marquee at Oakleigh Fairs Town & Country Show on Parkers Piece. You will find a map on the back cover with directions to these locations.

This free 3-day event starts between 10am-11am finishes between 4pm – 5pm, depending on the location and will be later in some venues, see pages 5-7.

The new Mayor opens the festival at 11am on Friday 12th June outside the front of the Guildhall. Cambuskers All Stars Skiffle Group is performing, as well as last year's winner Tom Korní, followed by a performance from Gyps'n'Progress, (acoustic swing gypsy trio) and D'Ukes, (a 6 piece ukulele band). Cambridge 105 are covering the opening ceremony and will be broadcasting live from the festival on Saturday 13th June from 2pm - 5pm.

This year we have more workshops than ever before at Millers Music in Sussex Street during the festival, for those wanting to learn the ukulele, harmonica or fiddle or want to improve on their playing, which you will find details of on page 14 & 15. New for this year we will have a banjo workshop and a mandolin workshop for guitarists who want to learn another instrument and/or improve on their musical skills.

We have a competition (for visitors to the festival) to vote for your favourite buskers. There is a tear off competition coupon on this page. There will also be a coupon in the Cambridge News during the festival. There will be fabulous prizes up for grabs for the winning acts! Drop boxes to post your coupons are at various locations, (details on the competition coupon). All completed coupons will go into a prize draw!

Apart from wanting to celebrate the variety of talent we have in Cambridge City Centre we also want to draw attention to the Street Performers Code of Practice (A Buskers Guide), so that we can increase awareness amongst performers of the need to adhere to this. It's also a guide for the public. This is available as a download from the City Council website.

Cambuskers would like to thank this year's supporters of the event, which includes, Millers Music, The Earl of Beaconsfield, Cambridge Dutchbikes Ltd, Pharminox Isolation Ltd, Langham Press, Oakleigh Fairs, Cambridge Bid, Cambridge City Council, Cambridge County Council, Cambridge 105, The Six Bells, d'Arry's, foodPark, Friends of the Earth and Cambridge Newspapers.

We would also like to thank buskers for taking part – a full list of all performers is on page 4.

We hope you enjoy some truly great entertainment – there are performances to suit all tastes! We hope the sun will shine on us, but whatever the weather we will have a fabulous festival!

Robert Burton

Winner of the Young Performers 2014

Robert Burton is 15 and attends Hinchbrook School in Huntingdon. He started his love of music playing recorder at primary school and then moved onto the saxophone when he was 9 years old. At the age of 11 Robert did his first busk in Cambridge! He finds everyone so friendly and busking has helped his confidence with performing. He was thrilled at winning the Best Young Performer category at last year's Buskers Festival and when he is not playing he loves to watch other performers.

Robert attends the Junior Guildhall School of Music in London every Saturday playing alto, tenor and soprano saxophones and, this year, won a place in the National Youth Wind Orchestra of Great Britain. He hopes to make music his future career.

Tom Korní

Winner of the Adult Musicians 2014

16 year old Tom Korní "The One Boy Band" was the winner of the Adult category in the Cambridge Buskers and Street Performers festival in 2014.

Since winning the competition he has continued to busk in Cambridgeshire and neighbouring counties as well as performing on stage at Silverstone and The Troxy in London. He performed at a private function for the East-Anglia Air Ambulance at the Elveden Estate with Lord Iveagh.

Recently, Tom had the opportunity to showcase his own compositions in his own gig at The Stables, Wavendon. He performed to a sold out audience and the night was a huge success.

Over the last year, Tom has appeared on many radio stations talking about his music and his aspirations. He has also played at many weddings, corporate events and has supported many charities.

He will be performing at Camp Bestival, Lulworth Castle Dorset and Bestival, Isle of Wight later this year.

Cambridge Friends of the Earth

In 1974, the year that Cambridge Friends of the Earth was set up, an interest in recycling was the preserve of eccentrics, hippies and "The Good Life" enthusiasts. Now Cambridge city residents are pleased to see recycling bins on our streets, expect that our council will supply us with bins to take away our plastic, paper and tins to the recycling depot and if this system breaks down demand an explanation immediately.

Lulu Agate, Group

Coordinator, finds this shift in public attitudes and awareness extremely encouraging as one of the roles of FoE groups nationwide is to help ordinary people to participate in the decisions about how their local environments are being managed and to feel that they have a right to do that.

"In the early days FoE groups usually felt that they were the voice of a minority whereas now we often find ourselves collaborating with other organisations towards shared goals. This is very positive as there are still lots of issues which urgently need to be tackled."

What are the current issues in Cambridge?

Climate Change remains the big issue on everyone's agenda with safer energy production topping the list of concerns arising out of those discussions. Although there are no plans for anyone to do any fracking locally this has of course been a hugely unpopular initiative by energy companies so we have been supporting campaigns in other parts of the country. Housing remains a high priority as national concerns about the lack of affordable housing being built has given us opportunities to remind people that efficient insulation and heating systems reduce CO<sub>2</sub>. While saving money is such a hot topic helping householders to consider how they can conserve and harness energy also keeps us busy.

The most common enquiries we receive continues to be about recycling as well as what to do with things which are obsolete. As things are produced but become outdated so rapidly we find that we hear from people who have things they cannot give away, cannot sell and do not want sent to landfill yet they do not know how to recycle them. Recently we were asked how old VHS video tapes could be recycled? Luckily we know some local textiles artists who are knitting with them.

Harmonica phenomenon Steve Lockwood has joined forces with Millers Music, Cambridge to put on a workshop for harmonica players of all abilities including complete beginners. Steve isn't just a musician with a worldwide reputation, who has played with acts from Larry Adler, Chris Difford (Squeeze) and Screaming Lord Sutch to the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra, and recorded over 70 albums, he's also got a degree in harmonica playing from Anglia Ruskin University, Cambridge and is a fully qualified teacher and lecturer with a PGCE.

The workshop is suitable for all levels of player including complete beginners and will help any harmonica player to start playing or improve their blues and pop and get the best out of this deceptively humble instrument. Steve's workshop is a rare opportunity for beginners, improvers and more competent players to gain instruction from a professional musician with 30 years of live performing forming the foundation of his teaching. Technical instruction is combined with hints and tips to make playing more musical and more fun.

Banjo Workshop with Robin Gillan, 1pm – 2pm (for guitarists wanting to learn banjo)

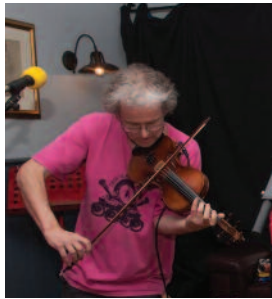

Robin Gillan has been active on the folk scene for over two decades and is now beginning to gain wider recognition. His music reflects timeless old field recordings of the 1950's, 60's and 70's and early commercial country recordings from the 1920's. Described as a polymath musician, Robin delivers songs with power and sensitivity. Robin is adept at 5 string banjo, fiddle, harmonica, guitar and melodeon. Robin draws from the music of the British Isles and the USA. His playing has rawness, balanced by technical ability, producing an archaic sound rarely achieved in the 21st century.

Robin has produced one solo album and recorded with numerous bands and artists, recently working with folk legend, Tom Paley. He has been booked at many festivals and folk clubs over the years, and recently performed at the Cambridge Folk Festival. He also runs the Black Fen Folk Club in Cambridge. Robin has won several awards for his fiddle and banjo playing and has drawn the attention of such diverse musical figures as Reg Hall, Bruce Molsky, Yehudi Menuhin and Noel Gallagher. #### Fiddle Workshop with Matt Kelly 3pm – 4pm (beginners & intermediate)

Matt plays fiddle, viola and mandolin. He is half of Kelly & Woolley, a cajun/folk duo, with guitarist, singer and songwriter Gary Woolley. Their first CD 'Papers in my Shoe' is due out in 2015. He is currently also playing in 'Thursday's Band', with Mark Gamon, Lucinda Fudge and Nick Blishen. Their 5 track EP 'Where the Breakers Roll' came out in April 2015.

Matt played in postpunk group 'Strumpet City' in Brighton in the mid-eighties, and with 'The Lizards', a cajun and blues band in South London in the late 80s. He played in 'Ti-fer Cajun Band' in the 1990s. He has recorded on various albums, including The Lizards Promised Land, Tony Hill Inexactness (heavy rock) and Mary Lou Lord Baby Blue (Americana). In his spare time, Matt plays classical music, teaches English and is a trade union and political activist.

"In the workshop, we will play tunes in a variety of folk styles, including Cajun, Appalachian and Old-Time, and look at improvising double stopping and accompaniments.

Mandolin Workshop with Daniel Nestlerode 12noon – 1pm (for guitarists wanting to learn mandolin)

Born in Pennsylvania, seasoned in California, Daniel Nestlerode is now based in Cambridge. His engaging manner, wonderful voice, and skill on the mandolin make him a favourite guest from Cornwall to East Anglia. His CD "More Than a Little Guitar" has been played on radio stations from California to Caledonia.

During his early days in central Pennsylvania Daniel picked up the guitar, started writing music, and played in some local bands. Local success inspired Daniel to move to California in pursuit of a career in music. Inspired by his acquaintance with mandolinist/percussionist/raconteur, Joe Craven, Daniel began playing mandolin. He was hooked from the first moment, and in a few years made the mandolin his primary instrument.

You can catch Daniel in some of the UK's best folk clubs playing original songs, a variety of traditional folk songs, and more modern covers.
